

TULA BOUTIQUE

The boutique is hosting an event to support Colorado State University fashion majors

FORT COLLINS – Jan. 1, 2020 – With CSU being such a prominent part of Fort Collins, Tula would love to celebrate the talented fashion students with a fun competition.

Founded in 2002, Tula is a family owned boutique that offers a variety of stylish merchandise that represents current trends in the fashion industry. The boutique is located in the Center of Old Town and is committed to helping and supporting the local community.

The event will be a competition between several up and coming student designers. Each student will create three outfits that will then be judged by Tula employees. The winner will win a $500 gift card and some recognition within throughout the Fort Collins community.

Madaline Brown, lead stylist and merchandiser for Tula is excited for the store to host this event. She believes it's a great way to show the university some support. "It's great that Tula can host this kind of event because I also go to CSU and it means that I can bring together two things that are really important to me," said Brown. "It's cool that we can show some support to the hard working and creative students."

The event will be hosted on Apr. 20, 2020 at 1 Old Town Square in downtown Fort Collins at 7:30p.m.. There will be refreshments and snacks available at the event. Students, family and the rest of the Fort Collins community is welcome. Tickets will be available online on Tulas main site. We hope to see you there.
